Environment

- Highways, Footpaths and Rights of Way

Christiaan has significant experience with highways, footpaths and rights of way issues arising in a variety of legal spheres of considerable complexity. Examples include:

Cases of Note:

- M27, Junction 8, Alterations and CPO – Christiaan acting for the principal landowner objector against National Highways' proposed expansion of the M27 Motorway at Southampton. Issues related to highways design engineering, junction capacity, flood risk and surface water drainage, local development plan policy, and importantly, the interpretation and application of most recent national and local flood risk policy and its impact on development.
- A303 Stonehenge DCO (2019-2021) – Christiaan acted for Historic England to safeguard Stonehenge World Heritage Site in relation to the provision of new highways infrastructure across and around the site, including the construction, stopping up and diversion of bridleways and footpaths, creating new rights of way and providing a new partly tunnelled dual carriage way because of the resulting removal of the historic groundscape.
- English Coastal Path – Christiaan acts for Berthon Boatyard, the UK's largest private boatyard and marina at Lymington, in relation to prevent routing of the coastal path across that private land by Natural England.
- The Silvertown Tunnel Order DCO – Christiaan acted for the London Borough Newham in relation to satisfactorily resolving local highway network issues resulting from the proposed dual carriageway tunnel under the River Thames.
- West Loathing Third Crossing DCO – Christiaan acted for the principal landowner objector in relation to the construction of the proposed bridge adjacent to the client's land. Issues included highways design, safe access, and alternatives.

- Commons access – Christiaan advises developers on rights of access across commons.
- Oversailing highways – Christiaan advises developers on obtaining consent for oversailing highways and on the risk of enforcement.
