Data Protection and Information Law

Rory is recommended as a leading silk in Information Rights and Data Protection in both The Legal 500 and Chambers and Partners (where he was ranked in Band 1 for juniors before taking silk). He advises and represents public authorities and data controllers in relation to the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA), the Data Protection Act 2018 and the UK GDPR. He often appears in appeals to the First-tier and Upper Tribunal against decisions of the Information Commissioner. Recently he represented the University of Southampton in FOIA appeals concerning the letters and diaries of Lord and Lady Mountbatten.

Cases of note

- Lownie v Information Commissioner and University of Southampton (EA/2020/0021, 26, 58, 59, 125) - The university had been entitled to withhold certain information within the papers of Lord and Lady Mountbatten. Some of that information was exempt under s40(2) of FOIA as it was the personal data of their surviving child. Other information was exempt under s27 of FOIA as its disclosure would have prejudiced international relations.
- Ministry of Defence v Information Commissioner and Burt (EA/2019/0038) - The Information Commissioner had been wrong to order the disclosure of the withheld elements of a report by the Defence Nuclear Safety Regulatory. The disclosure would be likely to prejudice defence, security and/or international relations.
- Department of Transport v Information Commissioner [2019] EWCA Civ 2241 - The First-tier Tribunal had been entitled to examine, line by line, a document relating to a meeting with HRH Prince Charles and find that the withheld information was not environmental and therefore fell under FOIA.
- Foreign and Commonwealth Office v Information Commissioner and Corke (EA/2019/0031) - The Information Commissioner had been wrong to order the disclosure of the discussions which led to Harvey Weinstein being awarded a CBE.
