"Hannah is brilliant at establishing rapport with both instructing solicitors and with clients. She is unflappable, pragmatic and works tirelessly to achieve the best results." Chambers UK Bar Guide, 2023

Hannah specialises in construction and engineering, energy, and professional negligence, as well as general commercial work. She is regularly instructed by domestic and international clients in Technology and Construction Court (TCC) proceedings as well as arbitration and adjudication. Hannah has substantial experience as junior counsel as well as sole counsel of a wide range of construction, engineering and infrastructure disputes, with particular experience of nuclear and energy matters. She works with FIDIC, NEC3 and JCT standard forms and bespoke contracts, and advises employers, construction professionals, local authorities, as well as private individuals.

Hannah speaks fluent French, in addition to German and Italian, which has helped in developing her international practice. In 2019, she was called to the Bar of Ireland (currently non-practising).

Construction and Engineering

Hannah has experience of disputes involving payment issues, defective workmanship as well as delay and disruption claims, and is familiar with standard form contracts used in the construction industry, in particular JCT and NEC contracts. She has additional experience of nuclear-related projects involving design, safety case issues and environmental issues. She also has a growing practice in energy matters, in particular oil and gas-related disputes. Notable cases include working as a junior in multi-million pound complex claims as well as contractual disputes (including arbitration and adjudication), professional negligence issues and statutory claims involving contractors and project designers.

Examples of recent work include:

- Advisory work for local authorities and construction professionals on cladding issues and fire safety management
- Acting for a management firm in a dispute arising from a private finance initiative (PFI) contract, including such issues as fire compartmentation, fire safety management and unavailability provisions
- Acting for a contractor in a claim brought by the developers of a disused power station
- Acting for a main contractor in delay and disruption claim arising in the course of a multi-million pound infrastructure dispute in East Africa
- Advisory work for a local authority in respect of a waste treatment disposal plant
- Acting for a contractor in a multi-million pound gas distribution dispute
- Acting for the owner in a dispute in respect of glazed window units on a high-rise hotel
- Advising on complex design and payment issues arising on construction of a residential construction project
- Advising and acting for homeowners as well as contractors on a range of residential construction matters
