Parole Board and Prisons

Rory acts for the Parole Board and Secretary of State for Justice in judicial reviews and human rights challenges. Rory is currently representing the Parole Board in a judicial review by a prisoner challenging the decision to hold a closed hearing in his absence without appointing a special advocate on his behalf.

Cases of note

- R (Umar Jones) v Parole Board for England and Wales -The prisoner is a post-tariff life prisoner. He challenges the decision of a Parole Board to hold a closed hearing, at which he will neither be represented nor have a special advocate. The purpose of the closed hearing is to examine sensitive information relevant to risk.
- R (Kelly) v Parole Board for England and Wales [2015] EWHC 4288 (Admin) - Delays in the parole board's review of a prisoner's detention had been caused by reasonable case management decisions rather than systematic failures. The length of the next review period was justified by the need for the prisoner to carry out further offending behaviour work.

Recommendations

"He is up there in the top five busiest silks and can turn his mind from one case to another very easily."
Chambers and Partners 2022

"He is extremely talented and is a very fair opponent who is well respected." Chambers and Partners 2022

"Even at the immigration Bar, Rory's command of the authorities is unequalled. He uses this knowledge to great effect, on his feet he can cut down other counsel by showing their submissions are based on misreadings of complex cases." The Legal 500, 2022

"Such a tough opponent – there's no aspect of a case he doesn't advance, and you can't miss a single thing because he will spot it. I didn't enjoy that day in court!" Chambers and Partners 2021

"He has an understated and calm advocacy style, is extremely intelligent and quickly gets on top of complex issues." Chambers and Partners 2021

"Analytically sharp and unflappable in court." Chambers and Partners 2021

"There is nothing nicer than listening to him in court, as he makes it all so straightforward and attractive."
Chambers and Partners 2021

"A formidable class act." The Legal 500 2020

"His practice is mostly on the government side but he's equally good at acting for claimants. He's thorough, reliable, easy to work with and extremely proficient." Chambers and Partners, 2020
