"An exceptionally dedicated and thorough barrister: you can count on her to leave no stone unturned and to get to the bottom of any problem you may have. She is bright, talented, and extremely committed to her cases. A natural leader, and a real asset to any legal team." The Legal 500 2023 (Tier 3)

Samantha is a highly regarded and in-demand multi-disciplinary barrister who practises in personal injury and clinical negligence, health and safety, construction, commercial, regulatory and disciplinary law and public law. She is recognised in the legal directories for her thoroughness, forensic analysis of the evidence and her personable ability to lead and work as a team. Samantha is regularly led by silks in high-profile, complex matters. She frequently acts as sole counsel. She acts for a range of clients from individual claimants and companies to insurers, government departments, local authorities, and quasi-governmental bodies. She is a strong advocate and tactician, benefitting from extensive court and trial experience. Samantha was appointed to the Treasury Panel of Junior Counsel (C Panel) in 2018.

Before joining the Bar, Samantha achieved a distinction in her LLM from McGill University and, most notably, undertook a Judicial Assistantship at the Constitutional Court of South Africa.

Clinical Negligence and Personal Injury

"Her knowledge of the area is remarkable, and her client care abilities are second to none." The Legal 500 2022

Samantha is a much sought-after personal injury and clinical negligence barrister, representing claimants and defendants. Samantha acts in complex, high-value matters as sole counsel and being led by senior members of chambers. She undertakes work in all areas of personal injury, with a particular focus on group actions. Samantha's clinical negligence practice continues to grow from strength to strength. She frequently acts in high-value, multi-party matters concerning a range of clinical negligence issues including delayed diagnosis, negligent treatment and failures in front-line and tertiary care. Samantha acts in all medical matters such as orthopaedics, cancer, gynaecology and fertility, brain injury, pharmaceutical, cosmetic surgery, and fatal injuries, among others.

Samantha is a contributor to the clinical negligence chapter of Bullen & Leake & Jacob's Precedents of Pleadings.

Samantha's practice is strengthened by her frequent inquest work, expertise in healthcare regulatory proceedings and keen eye for costs.

Samantha undertakes work on a conditional fee agreement (CFA) basis.

Cases of note:

- Archer and Others v Ministry of Justice; Freitas and Others v Ministry of Justice - Led by Colin Thomann in claims for breaches of the Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005 brought by 32 prisoners who suffered physical and psychiatric injuries during a fire in a prison. Samantha was significantly involved in advising on quantum, procedure and costs. Case settled.
