"She's always on top of her cases and is a super-calm presence in any situation. She's always the most prepared person in the room, and for that reason she's just a dream to work with." Chambers and Partners 2021

Eliza specialises in complex Court of Protection health and welfare proceedings, including serious medical treatment, cross border cases, and cases where there is an overlap with the inherent jurisdiction. Eliza has a background in family law and has a special interest in cases involving the deprivation of liberty of children or young people.

Eliza advises and acts in associated civil, public law and human rights claims arising out of the above, including breach of Article 5 and 8 and claims relating to children (for example, failure to remove/unlawful removal/unlawful use of section 20).

Eliza has been recognised as a leading junior in public law matters, specialising in health care and Care Act 2014 decision making. Eliza also has particular expertise in cases involving the extent of local authority duties towards children in/leaving care and children with additional needs.

Eliza undertakes inquests, with a particular focus on cases where there are allegations of breach of statutory duty causing or contributing to the death.

Eliza also acts in property and affairs matters and is a qualified (ADR Group) mediator, and a participating mediator in the Court of Protection Mediation Pilot Scheme.
