PRACTICE AREAS

ADMINISTRATIVE & PUBLIC MENTAL CAPACITY & MENTAL HEALTH

“Excellent, a voice of calm in troubled waters, who produces incredibly impressive advocacy and written work.”

Chambers & Partners (2015)

Michelle has built a thriving practice in the Court of Protection and is regularly instructed in complex disputes by local authorities, public bodies, family members and the Official Solicitor. She has acted in a wide range of welfare proceedings, including disputes over deprivation of liberty, forced marriage, residence, care and contact. Michelle has also appeared in a number of cases involving serious medical treatment and applications for the appointment of a deputy for property and affairs.

Michelle has been instructed in a range of mental health proceedings, including applications to displace a nearest relative on the basis that they have unreasonably objected to their relative's admission for treatment.

EDUCATION LAW

"She is great and clients absolutely love her. She is very reassuring." Chambers and Partners (2015)

Michelle has a wealth of experience in all aspects of education law. Her clients include local authorities, universities, academies and schools as well as students and parents. She regularly advises on the application of discrimination law in an educational context, and in particular on the operation of the Equality Act and the duty to make reasonable adjustments. Michelle has particular experience in the field of special educational needs; advising and appearing in cases before the First-Tier Tribunal and Upper Tribunal. She is most frequently instructed in high-value cases involving intensive therapy provision and placement in independent or residential schools. She has also appeared in complex admission and exclusion appeals.

COMMUNITY CARE

Michelle has a growing community care practice and has been instructed on a raft of applications for judicial review. She has advised on issues ranging from where an individual is ordinarily resident to disputes over payments to fostering agencies, and has been involved in a number of challenges arising from the complexities of the "leaving care" provisions.

EMPLOYMENT LAW

Michelle's experience in employment law includes unfair and wrongful dismissal, breach of contract, redundancy, unlawful deductions from wages and TUPE transfers. She has particular expertise in equality and discrimination, having acted in numerous cases concerning discrimination on the basis of sex, race and disability before the Employment Tribunal and Employment Appeals Tribunal.

REGULATORY & DISCIPLINARY

Michelle has been instructed in a range of regulatory and disciplinary matters. She has acted for banks and trust companies in disputes with the British Virgin Islands Financial Services Commission concerning compliance inspections, fitness to practise and penalty enforcement notices for failure to comply with anti-money laundering and other regulatory requirements. She has a particular interest in fraud and money laundering proceedings and was instructed as junior counsel to Hodge Malek QC in complex fraud proceedings spanning several jurisdictions that led to a confiscation order in the British Virgin Islands for over US$45 million. Michelle has also had significant experience in the field of professional disciplinary disputes, and has advised on a raft of cases concerning fitness to practise.
